

PEACE MAY BE YET SECURED

Evidences Of An End Of Teamsters' Strike In Chicago Seem Near Today.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD IS TO MEET

Owners Of Teaming Companies Make Ultimatum Relative To The Delivery Of Goods To Boycotted Firms.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE]
Chicago, Ill., May 15.—Peace predominates in the teamsters' strike today. No violence of any kind was reported up to noon. It is reported that a movement will materialize tonight to reverse the vote by which the teamsters in joint council decided to "stand pat," in refusing to permit drivers to deliver to the boycotted houses, and also that the executive board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will meet in Chicago tomorrow. These reports help sustain the belief that the end of the strike is at hand. The team-owners will meet today to decide when to begin forcing the deliveries to the boycotted firms. Unless steps are made in the direction of peace previously to the effort the team-owners will force deliveries and undoubtedly lead to a spread of the strike.

Calls for Conference

President Shea of the Teamsters' union today telegraphed President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor arranging for a meeting of the national board of that body in Chicago for the end of the week. The report that Shea had wired the national officers of the Teamsters' union to come to Chicago is also confirmed. These moves are regarded as indicating a probable strike settle-

The team owners, who now hold the key to the situation, have determined to give the unions one more chance to retreat from their position. In the teamsters' joint council, too, influences are said to be at work to end the strike.

Reporters that the executive board of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters will be in session here tomorrow were persistent during the day. They were denied by the local officials, but strongly supported by the team owners, who claimed to have secured knowledge on this point.

The executive board meeting, it was said, has been called at the behest of two of its members, who have seats in the teamsters' joint council. These men, it is declared, are radically opposed to spreading the strike, and in the other case, they are ready to join hands with the Employers' association and attempt to break it.

Several large teaming contractors will not wait for a second answer from the union and will court strikes by beginning deliveries to the strike bound houses. A few were made on Saturday, and it is said that since last Thursday one contractor has been hauling goods secretly to Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co.

Team Owners Hold the Key.

Everything in the strike, it is believed, now hinges upon the action of the Chicago Team Owners' association, the dominating organization in the teaming business of Chicago. In this light the statement of Secretary

SLUGGERS WERE PAID FOR COMMITTING THE MURDERS

Unions Are Said To Have Voted Certain Sums For Educational Purposes.

Chicago, May 15.—Two members of the executive committee of local union No. 4 of the Carriage and Wagon Workers' International union, which is accused of hiring sluggers to maim and kill nonunionists, and which is held directly responsible for the death of C. J. Meyers, otherwise known as C. J. Carlstrom, have been arrested. It developed that two officers of the union had fled to escape consequences of the investigation of the practice of hiring sluggers.

Eight prisoners are now in custody as principals or accessories in the brutal murder of Meyers.

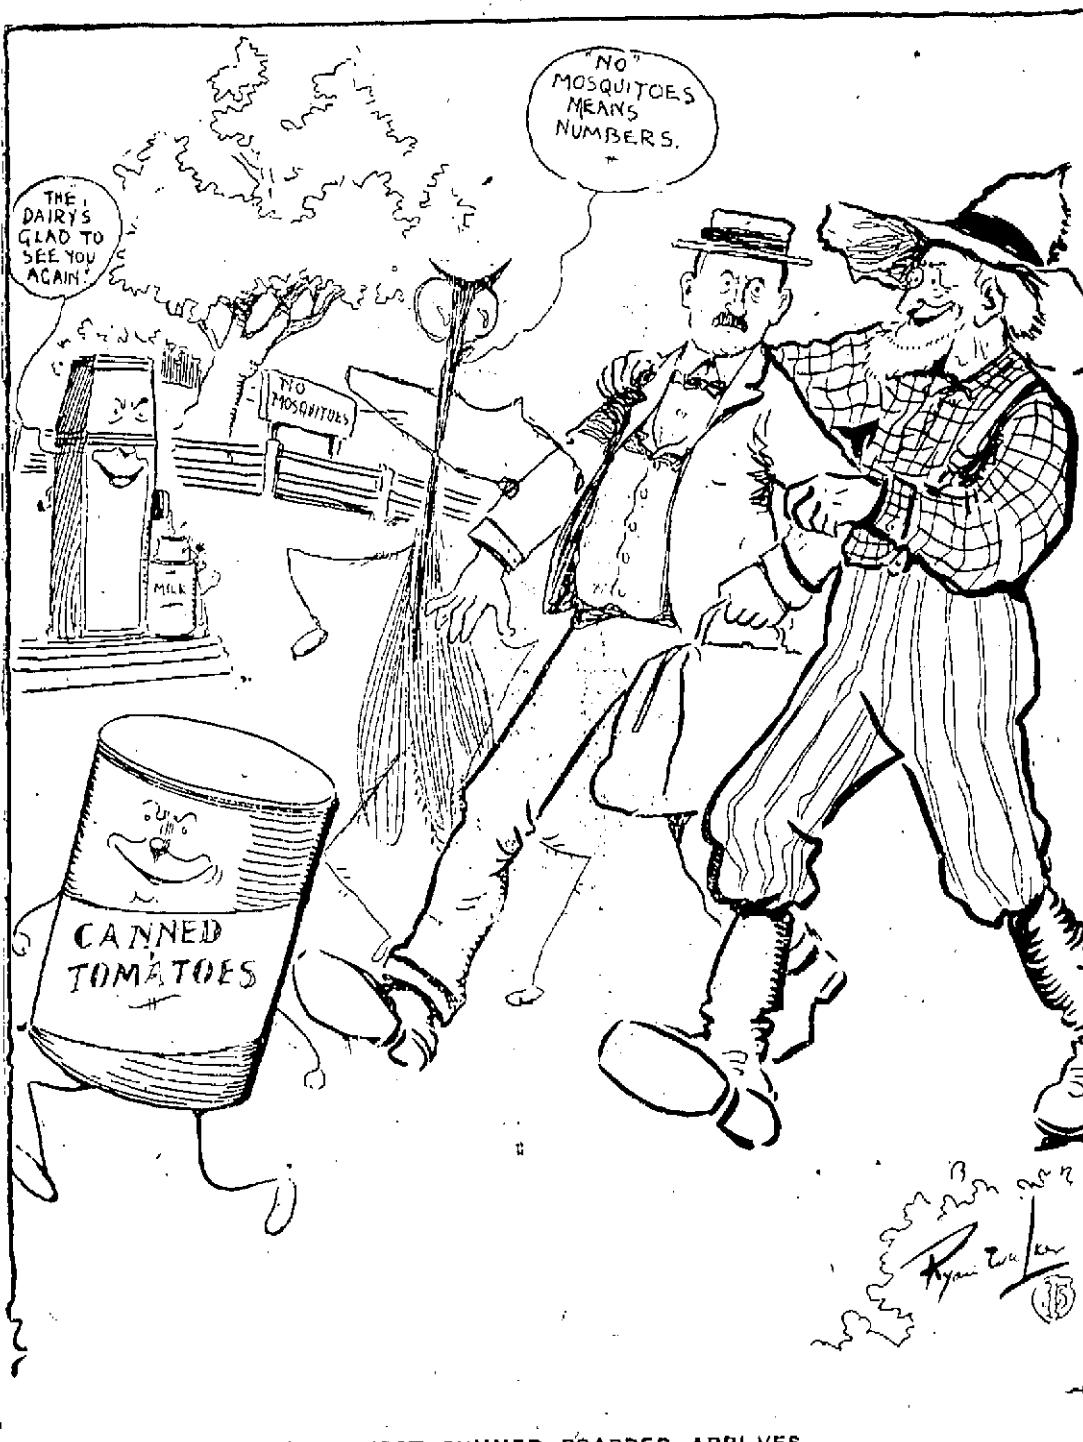

The two men were present at the meeting of the executive committee of local No. 4 on April 6 when a fund of $50 was appropriated, ostensibly for "educational purposes," but actually for purposes of paying Charles Gilhooley and his two accomplices for "doing up" carriage workers who had refused to go out on strike with their fellows. The two members of this committee arrested protest they did not know for what purpose the "educational fund" was to be used.

John Heldens and Frank Novak are the latest suspects to be placed behind bars.

Waived Examination

Charles J. Casey, business agent of the Carriage and Wagon-Workers' union No. 4, charged as being an accessory to the murder in bringing about the "slugging" of Charles J. Carlstrom, a non-union wagon-maker, waived his examination today and was held to the grand jury without bail. Four other officers of the union were held under heavy bail for hearing May 25. The alleged professional sluggers, Gilhooley, Feely and Looney, charged with the murder of Carlstrom, are held pending the coroner's inquest.

Confessions of men under arrest show that the executive committee of the union decided to discipline the members who refused to strike, and in Japan Claims Positive Information That It Is—Question of Knowledge.

Singapore, May 15.—The steamer Jason reports on May twelfth it sighted thirteen Russian war vessels off Cape Varella, north of Hohkope bay. Still there.

Tokio, May 15.—It is definitely known now that the Russian fleet, after leaving Honkoko bay May 8 returned to the bay since that time and are still anchored there.

Another Denial.

Paris, May 15.—French government has issued another denial of the allegations of Japan to the effect that the Russian fleet lingered either in Kamranh bay or Honkoko bay. The declaration the entire fleet left May 8 and since remained away from French waters.

Reenter Kamranh Bay.

"On April 24 the entire Russian fleet reentered Kamranh bay and rode at anchor until April 26, when a majority of the warships sailed, leaving behind four converted cruisers and one torpedo boat destroyer. These latter vessels took supplies of coal and provisions. On April 26, toward evening, these vessels stopped and examined the German steamer Losok and the Norwegian steamer Providence, which were injured and some fifty perhaps fatally, as the result of an explosion of celluloid, during a fire in a celluloid company's plant today.

REFORM CREED OF OLD CHURCH

Appeal To Drop The Westminster Confession For Latter Day Faith Up.

PRESBYTERIANS MUCH DIVIDED

It Is Said That Some Of The Doctrines Of The Church Are Not Fully Believed By The Pulpit And Laity.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPPS-M'RAE]
New York, May 15.—The general assembly of the Presbyterian church, which will meet at Winona Lake, Ind., beginning Thursday, will discuss the overtures made by the presbytery of Nassau, L. I., to drop the Westminster confession of faith and substitute therefor the brief statement of the reformed faith. Between the conservatives and radicals there promises to be a lively discussion.

This was recently adopted by the general assembly as a brief statement but not as a creed of the church, the old confession, known as the Westminster confession, which contains many doctrines that have caused sharp controversies between clergymen, being retained.

Plays for Reform.

The Rev. Dr. Samuel T. Carter, New York City, last September sent an open letter to the presbytery at Nassau which attracted wide attention. He assailed certain doctrines "received by the church, but not generally believed." The reading of the letter at the Presbyterian meeting at Oyster Bay precipitated a discussion over the statements it contained.

The controversy continued until the next meeting, held in December. It was believed that Dr. Carter might be tried for heresy, but after appearing before the presbytery at Nassau and making an eloquent appeal for the truth and the dropping of missives, however time honored, he triumphed in that instead of trying him for heresy the presbytery voted to make overtures to the general assembly to drop the Westminster confession.

Dr. Carter's Statement.

A statement has been given out by Dr. Carter, in which he says:

"The general assembly of the Presbyterian church meets in the month of May. The presbytery of Nassau asks it to take the necessary steps towards dropping the Westminster confession and adopting the brief statement of the reformed faith, the simple and kinder creed which has already been indorsed by the church.

"The general assembly can reject the petition more or less courteously. But can it afford to do so? It is important to rid the church of bad creed, but still more important to dispel from the minds of men the gloomy ideas of religion which go with the old creeds and most of all the dreadful dogma of endless torment which has caused such intense suffering.

"The general assembly can do nothing so good as to make an end of it. It is more seriously important than sending missionaries to China. There is no use of sending truth abroad if we live a lie at home."

"This is what they are doing in the Presbyterian church today. The general assembly will do nothing so good as to make an end of it. It is more seriously important than sending missionaries to China. There is no use of sending truth abroad if we live a lie at home."

13 CANDIDATES ARE CONFIRMED

BISHOP NICHOLSON CONDUCTS TWO SERVICES YESTERDAY,

A TRIBUTE TO DR. WHITING

Expresses Beautiful Thoughts on Easter and Partnership with God.

In two church services yesterday Bishop Isaac Nicholson of the Milwaukee diocese of the Episcopal church administered the rites of confirmation to thirteen candidates. The ceremony for nine persons was performed at Trinity church in the morning and for four others at Christ church in the evening. The congregation of the two churches joined in the service last evening and at the close Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Barrington received at their home all those who desired to become personally acquainted or renew old acquaintanceship with Rev. Nicholson.

Easter's Meaning

For his address at Trinity church Bishop Nicholson took the seventh verse of the fifty-seventh Psalm for a text: "My heart is fixed, O God, my heart is fixed; I will sing and give praise." This Psalm has been a part of the Easter services for 1400 years and the thoughts it expresses, though written many years before the resurrection, are those which Easter day brings to us. The verse expresses certitude of love for Christ and gratitude.

The Four Certitudes

Easter day impresses upon us four things, four certitudes, and by these we are made strong and to feel grateful. The resurrection first assures us that sins are forgiven. A concrete example is Mary Magdalene. She, the greatest of all sinners forgiven by the Savior during His life, discovered that Christ had risen and was the first to see Him after this. The second certitude that is gathered is that we have a fixed creed. The incident which Easter day commemorates certifies the creed for if Jesus did not rise from the tomb there is nothing of truth in the creed, nothing of truth in the Bible, nothing of truth in the Christian faith, for false in one point, as in legal testimony, it would be false completely.

Both Soul and Body

The third certitude that Easter brings is the immortality of the soul. That day removes from our mind the mere probability of immortality, and makes it possible, makes us certain of that truth. The fourth certitude is the resurrection of the body. Not only the soul but the body is immortal. The heathen of nearly every belief consider the soul endowed with eternity of the body. The same soul and the same body of the earth will rise, but rise in a more perfect form. Those who do not believe in the immortality of the body have a defective form of religion, but we should believe it because it is the real religion, the apostles' religion, the religion of the Bible. The body is the temple of the soul and it should be kept perfect and pure.

Tribute to Whiting

In the evening Bishop Nicholson addressed a large congregation at the Christ church. In opening he paid a glowing tribute to the late Dr. Whiting. He said he missed his familiar appearance in the church, but trusted and knew that he was now serving the Lord above just as loyally as he had served God on earth, as loyally as he served his country, as loyally as he served his friends.

THE BISHOP'S TRIBUTE
The bishop took for his text II Corinthians 6:1—"We then as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain." He said in brief: We are the partners of God for the betterment of man. Partners in business concerns often differ on little points, but agree on the big ones and succeed. We must forget and relinquish those little things which we would like but which would separate us from the Lord.

Work in Three Fields

Our partnership with God is a battle against our own sin. If our big sin is intemperance, immortality, an impure mind or whatever, we must conquer it for on this depends the issue of the fight. Our great vice is like Huegermont on the field of Waterloo or Round Top on the field of Gettysburg, as the fight goes at these points so the entire battle goes.

God in three persons, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, and with all these must we work. The Father is the great creator of all things. In the field of creation we must assist. We must apply the powers endowed by Him. The inventor, the chemist and the electrician are but great amplifiers of God's physical powers. With Christ, the Son, we are to labor in the redemption of the world. We are to preach the gospel at home and abroad; we are to convert nations. The Holy Ghost sanctifies. With His aid we day by day increase in our spiritual power; He illuminates the soul; He forgives. A united effort with God in these three fields will bring about marvelous results. Intelligent cooperation will gain the Huegermont or the Round Top and win the great fight.

AND NOW IT'S CHICOS CIGARS

Interesting Talk by Smith Drug Co. on What Makes a Cigar Popular.

The remarkable success of Wadsworth Bros. Chico cigar in getting into the mouths of smokers in Janesville is astonishing.

Less than a year ago the Chico was unknown here. Today it is the most popular cigar in Smith Drug Co.'s large stock.

"Advertising alone will not make a cigar popular," said Mr. Smith of Smith Drug Co. "A cigar must be good to meet with a sale in this city. I do not know of a town where the smokers are as discriminating as they are in Janesville, and the fact that they have made Wadsworth Bros.' Chico their favorite, speaks volumes for its quality. While it sells for 5c, it is better than the average ten cent cigar, so that it reaches all classes of smokers. It is an all long Havana filled cigar, and a good one, that I am glad to recommend to my customers."

DUSKY ATTENDANTS WILL TEST THE LAW

Pullman Car Porters To Slight Those Who Comply with Wisconsin
Anti-Tipping Measure.

"I shan't believe I'm corrupt, but I do get tips in Wisconsin," said a dusky attendant on a St. Paul train running into Janesville.

"I do hear dey have sleuths on de train and dat dey are lookin' out for us," chimed in a darky buffet waiter, who was thoughtfully jingled a pocket full of change.

For several days after May 8, when the Wisconsin legislature passed the anti-tipping bill, and Governor La Follette signed the measure, porters and waiters on the trains to Minneapolis through Wisconsin were scared to al most ashen whiteness.

"From what I can learn," said a railroad man, "the only result of the law is that those who don't want to tip the boys have a legal excuse. What is more, they take particular pains to explain to the porters that they are not giving tips for highly moral reasons. This rankles in the hearts of the colored men; but as far as I can see, it has no effect upon their taking their tips from others when offered."

PORTERS EMPLOY A LAWYER.

The latest move by the porters' union is to employ a lawyer to test the law. The law reads: "Whoever corruptly gives, offers or promises to an agent, employee or servant any gift or gratuity . . . or any agent or employee who accepts any gift or gratuity, is guilty of a misdemeanor." The porters maintain that there is nothing corrupt in their actions and that they are going to see what the law is worth. They also hold that the customary "shine" is not required by their terms of service and that it entitles them to payment.

A railroad official said that the passengers are the losers. The non-tippers are soon spotted by the observant porters and their shoes in the morning are as dusty and dirty as at night. The wrong end of the whisk broom is also plopped with effect, and if an anti-tipster makes a second trip on a train he misses the many little attentions which make the tips timely. The waiters circumvent the law by going out and getting telegraph blanks and receiving tips for "extra service rendered." Telegraph blanks are at a premium.

QUIET SUMMER ON THE TOBACCO MART

PREDICTION OF THE LEAF MEN—NOW
PLANTS ARE COMING WELL DESPITE THE BAD WEATHER.

Little riding is now being done by the tobacco warehouse men though there is still some buying, but by far not as much as there was two or three weeks ago. The sales and purchases are now scattering and the end of the season is fast approaching. The same is true of the handling season and the warehouses continue to close one by one. The summer months this year will be quieter on the tobacco market than in many years past for the growing districts have been most thoroughly inspected and the stocks in the hands of the packers are small. Among the market movements that were made last week were the shipment by Fisher & Fisher of two cars of old leaf, which went to the east; the sale of 125 cases of 1902 and the receiving of 2 cars at McFarland and 1 at Evansville by G. H. Runril.

The weather during the first four days of last week was very disagreeable to tobacco growers, the cold temperature and humid atmosphere having held back the plant beds. The young plants are showing abundantly above ground and a continuance of warm weather and much sunshine is all that is needed at the present time.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, May 15, 1865.—Back Again.—We notice the genial face of Dug. King behind the news depot counter in the postoffice. He has relinquished the idea of southern independence that he entertained, and will hereafter conduct the business of the news depot. His numerous friends are glad to see him at his old post again.

The State Fair.—Prof. Hoy writes us that the place where the next State Fair shall be held is not yet decided upon by the executive committee. Why should it not be held in Janesville? The grounds are already prepared and under the stimulus of the new Rock County Agricultural Society our people will be prepared to contribute more largely towards the success of the State Fair than ever before. We are decidedly in favor of holding it here. Who seconds the motion?

The News.

The details of the capture of Jeff Davis, the greatest criminal of modern times, will be read with unusual pleasure by every loyal man, woman and child throughout the length and breadth of the land. He was taken in southern Georgia on Wednesday last, while endeavoring to escape to the sea coast. The pitiful wretch donned one of his wife's dresses and took to the woods, but the dress being short and the boots of Mr. Jeff, being rather large for a woman, the cavalry men saw at once that the balance of the once boastful southern confederacy had found the last ditch inside of crinoline. He is now on his way to the north under as strong guard who will not allow him to escape, to expiate his crimes upon the scaffold. Hanging will do him and the world good. It will vindicate supremacy of the law, the strength and vitality of republican institutions, satisfy the demands of justice, make treason more odious and prove a warning to all rebels and traitors in all future times. The government has just put down the most formidable rebellion that ever defied the authority of any nation, and when Jeff Davis dangles at the end of the halter in ignominious death, it will be a crowning fact to convince foreign nations of the permanency of free institutions. Let him die the death, and let all people cry AMEN and AMEN.

Will exhibit here May 30.

"Would there be room?" asks the Boston Globe, apropos the Journal's suggestion that the maple sugar makers be required to stamp each cake with a list of the ingredients in its composition. There would be for all practical purposes. Brown sugar would occupy the place of honor as the principal ingredient, and after this a quantitative analysis would convey no new information.—Biddeford Journal.

Envelopes.

The letters X, XX, XXX on envelope boxes indicate that the standard reams of paper, twenty-four by thirty-six inches, from which they are made, are respectively forty, fifty and sixty pound paper. The terms light, medium and heavy are also applied. The figures on such boxes indicate the size in inches of the envelopes, but nothing to do with the weight.

Found "Seven Barks". A Splendid Medicine For Kidney and Liver.

On November 27, 1904, Mrs. Lucie E. Chapman, of Central Nassau, N. Y., writes:

"Have used your Seven Barks with excellent results. It has relieved me of kidney and liver troubles, and it cannot be beat for Constipation. Accept my thanks for what it has done for me. I was in a bad shape when I commenced using it, and I am a well woman today."

If your kidneys trouble you, if your liver is sluggish, or if you are constipated, there's no remedy like Seven Barks. It is purely vegetable, easy to take (small dose) and will put you right quicker than anything else. If you've any doubts about it, a 50-cent bottle of Seven Barks will remove them; and the money isn't ours until you say you're cured. Your word decides it, not ours. No cure, no pay.

That's our way of getting skeptical people to try this grand old remedy. Do you know of a better way?

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Mothers Should Watch the Development of Their Daughters—Interesting Experiences of Misses Borman and Mills.

Every mother possesses information which is of vital interest to her young daughter.

Too often this is never imparted or is withheld until serious harm has resulted to the growing girl through her ignorance of nature's mysterious and wonderful laws and penalties.

Girls' over-sensitivity and modesty often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, as they so often withhold their confidence from their mothers and conceal the symptoms which ought to be told to their physician at this critical period.

When a girl's thoughts become sluggish, with headache, dizziness or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs, eyes dim, desire for solitude; when she is a mystery to herself and friends, her mother should come to her aid, and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help.

"But since taking the Compound my headaches have entirely left me, my monthly periods are regular, and I am getting strong and well: I am telling all my girlfriends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice, ask her to address Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her every detail of her symptoms, and to keep nothing back. She will receive advice absolutely free, from a source that has no rival in the experience of woman's ills, and it will follow.

Miss Mills has written the two following letters to Mrs. Pinkham, which will be read with interest:

THE BEEF-TRUST.

The investigation of monopolies has become a national fad and under the inspiration of a handful of erratic reform leaders, almost every enterprise of magnitude is regarded with suspicion. The railroads of the country are freely criticised and condemned. The Standard Oil Company is regarded as an unmitigated evil, while the half dozen packers, known as the "big six" are denounced as villains of pronounced type.

So much complaint was made against the "beef trust" that the government decided to investigate, and some three months ago the task was assigned to Mr. Garfield of the Interstate commerce commission. The work has just been completed and while the report is exhaustive, it has been the subject of much criticism because it is disappointing to many people, who are so blinded by prejudice that they accuse Commissioner Garfield of furnishing a whitewashed report.

This class of people started out with the theory that the beef trust must be convicted anyway, and when the evidence came in, and it was discovered that there was no cause for complaint, they were naturally disappointed. The report is very exhaustive and enters into every detail of the business. In speaking of the profits it says:

"The actual bookkeeping profits of the strictly beef business of three leading packers for the twelve months from July, 1901, to June, 1902, averaged ninety-nine cents per head or about one-sixth of a cent per pound of dressed beef. This figure represents the beef business of Armour & Co. at their three largest plants, of Swift & Co., at their five leading plants, and of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Company at their Chicago plant. These plants were selected as the only ones for which detailed statistics could be conveniently compiled as a check upon the summary book-keeping accounts. The profits of the three companies did not differ greatly from one another. The profit statements of the three plants of Morris & Co. also showed approximately the same results. The beef business of the Cudahy Packing Company was not examined with equal fullness, but it was found that, in 1901, the total profits of the company were equal to about one-seventh of a cent per pound on all classes of products shipped, including beef, pork, mutton, and other commodities."

It has been claimed that the "big six" depend on their private cars for profits rather than on their packing business, and as there are some 60,000 of these cars in use, it was reasonable to suppose that the investment was profitable.

The report covers this branch of the business and after the most careful investigation decides that the net profit on cars furnished by the packers does not exceed 25¢ per head of cattle.

The Economist of Chicago recently contained an article from the pen of an ex-packer, a man thoroughly familiar with the business. He says in part:

"The Garfield report is a mine of valuable information reflecting great credit on the government investigating agents. It appears to me accurate and remarkably free from prejudice; yet, surprise is expressed at what it reveals, and a doubt is cast on it as to fairness and correctness, apparently, because it does not prove that the packers have exacted an exorbitant profit out of the consumer and producer. It has been pointed out that the difference between the price paid for the live cattle and that charged for dressed beef on certain dates shows great increase in profit. This difference as to profits is seldom a reality. The price of the by-product is often several dollars per head less one time than another, and some seasons the difference in the percentage of beef yield will make several more dollars per head difference."

"For instance, the oleo legislation made a difference in the price of fat nearly equal to the packers' average profit per head of cattle, and the market price of hides in March and April, 1902, was about $5 per steer less than in October, 1902, and in February and March of last year was $2.75 per steer less than in October, 1902, thus increasing the ratio between the live and the dressed cost of cattle.

"It seems to me the real question at issue in this controversy is not have the packers technically broken the law against combines, but have they wilfully broken it to exact an exorbitant profit out of the producer and consumer? If they have a mutual understanding to prevent ruinous competition and to supply the product to the public at a profit, the smallness of which causes surprise, the public is neither hurt nor need it be interested.

"The law was to prevent extortion. If there be none and none possible or contemplated, why should a technical evasion of the law to prevent ruination of themselves be a crime or a cause for the indictment of men who have built up a gigantic industry and made their names household words in every port in the world? Why should the stigma of an indictment be cast on them without an investigation of both sides of the question?

"The Garfield report shows the packers make a net profit on beef and its by-products of nearly $1.50 per head. The best proof that this must be substantially correct may be found in the Swift & Co. reports to its stockholders. It has about 6,000 of them. It shows the total net earnings for the last five years to average between 10 and 11 per cent per annum. This is the largest concern in the business. Its stockholders put $5,000,000 more cash in the business in 1901-2 and $10,000,000 more in 1902, and during these years have invested out of this new capital over three millions in permanent buildings and four and three-quarters millions in branch houses and other investments.

"These five years have been the most prosperous times ever known in nearly every line of business, yet the Swift & Co. figures show a profit of less than 1.0 per cent on its total sales during these years.

"To obtain these results they had to have refrigerator cars, wholesale markets scattered all over the United States and abroad, had to can meats, refine lard, manufacture the by-product into soap, fertilizer, glue and a large number of other articles previously sold in the raw state to manufacturers of these specialties.

"Several years ago I was returning from New York in the same car with the late G. F. Swift. At that time the competition was very severe and I remarked that if it was kept up a further step would have to be taken and retail shops opened all over the country, so that only one profit could come between the producer and the consumer. He said: 'Never, never, at least I hope never.' Yet, if men have to be dishonored by indictment or punished as criminals for trying to prevent their own ruin by ruinous competition, and this without any injustice to the public, then competition must become wide, open, fierce and ruinous. A survival of the strongest and the strongest will probably be the company which will buy out the best plants with the best organization and then drive out of business every retailer, wholesaler and other middleman between the producer and consumer, and thus reduce the competition in the buying of hogs and cattle and the selling of beef, etc., to a fraction of what it is today.

They Must Be Convicted Anyhow.

"The farmers have had several years of prosperity; equal if not greater than any other class; yet, they have been taught that the packers and railroads are preventing them from getting a fair price for their product and are their natural enemies. The farmers are thought to be prejudiced against the packers, yet a majority of the federal grand jury, called, shall say, to indict certain packers, are farmers or men out of a farming community, and there is apparently not one on the jury with any particular knowledge of or interest in the packing or railroad side of the question. Is it possible that the theory of the law that a man shall be tried by his peers has been changed to—a man shall be tried by his enemies?

"In a recent leading editorial in the Chicago Tribune, the writer asks: 'Are the officers of the law investigating the facts with rigid impartiality and fairness, or are they organized to convict?' The article comments as follows: 'It does look as if there was an effort to make political capital for some restless person here or in Washington, and as if the idea was erroneously entertained that an officer of the law may make a great reputation by indicting the packers, even though the evidence shall be insufficient for their conviction.'

It is estimated that the great Salt Lake contains 14,000,000,000 tons of salt. The Mormon church is largely interested in the salt industry. It costs 75¢ per ton to produce at railway station and finds a ready market at 85¢.

The threat implied in the appeal of labor unions to the president, on his recent visit to Chicago, was unfortunate for the cause of organized labor. The leaders overlooked the fact that the President is commander-in-chief of the army.

If the Doctors are so anxious to suppress advertising among the members of their profession why do they always want to rush into print themselves every time they attend a patient?

A man can hire a horse and drive it to Kingdom Come and back providing he pays for the use of it but he must not try to trade or sell it on the way or he will have trouble.

Spring is progressing. The sun now shines for a few hours every day and the only thing that grows well are weeds and front lawns.

The legislature took a rest over Sunday and now they can begin all over again and commit some more foul legislations.

If the old capitol is rebuilt there will be plenty to say that the shell as it stands now was good enough.

The supreme court will be busy for some time to come settling the legal points in some of the new laws passed by the present legislature.

Lobbying is to be made crime by the legislators who have not been sufficiently urged to vote for or against some bills.

Secretary Loeb played that Omaha woman who wanted to see him a mean trick by not passing through her city.

Roosevelt has returned to Washington and by this time is half way through his bear stories.

Other towns besides Janesville have silk robberies under the eyes of the police.

It is always bad luck to pass under a ladder, particularly a falling one.

The strike still continues in Chicago. Peace is not yet in sight.

Dice shaking always leads to something bad.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Nobody is to blame for the conduct of the school children who strike but their parents.

Rockford Register Gazette: Beloit will soon be a rival of Frisco and Kalamazoo for lively "boxing" matches.

Oshkosh Northwestern: And all the while the barnacles are getting a fresh start on the hulls of Rojestvensky's ships.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Jim Jeffries is the champion to Fitzsimmons, and the usual attempt will be made to break the will.

Marquette Eagle Star: A scientist thinks man descended from a fish. Well, there are a few scaly specimens left to help prove his contention.

Exchange: When a rich man does not compel his children to learn to work, the state should step in and take them away from him.

Atlanta Constitution: Now we have the "fireless cook stove." When we evolve to the foodless meal and the clothless clothing, we'll not worry so much about the relation of the trusts to the cost of living.

Sebagoan Journal: Marquette's brewer has been obliged to suspend its free list, and already, as Bill Nye once said, tongues are hanging out like ready mattresses from second story windows.

Kansas City Star: Out of the twelve and a half hours that Mr. Roosevelt was in Chicago, eleven and half were given to the public. Can't you see that one whole term and a good part of another is about all that a president like that could stand?

Chicago Record-Herald: Some New York people who recently sued Thomas W. Lawson for $25,000, have just paid him $11,000 to call it square. They are probably convinced now that there is something more than wind in frenzied finance.

Superior Telegram: After all the care and solicitude that have been lavished upon that squalling infant the beet-sugar industry it is discouraging to learn that the American Beet Sugar company is in despair because of the meagerness of the net returns of the business.

Evening Wisconsin: Those aldermen who demanded that the chief of police should rigidly enforce the law against selling liquor to minors, and who now refuse to revoke the licenses of saloonkeepers' guilty of this offense, though such action is recommended by the chief, eat a very sorry figure in the eyes of citizens who hold in high esteem the good repute of Milwaukee.

Boston Transcript: You put blinders on a horse so that he can scarcely see anything that is going on about him and then you blame him for trembling and jumping and starting to run at every little noise. You forget how frightened you were when with blinded eyes you were initiated into the awful mysteries of the High Mightiest Lodge of Unbiased and Supreme Chinwaggers. And why shall a horse be frightened as easily as a donkey?

Chicago Chronicle: As we ventured to predict several weeks ago, Nan Patterson is at liberty after a series of trials which must have cost the taxpayers of New York city a pretty penny. If Mr. Jerome has got any particular glory out of the case it is not perceptible. The consummation of the whole affair shows that juries do not like to hang women and will not do so save upon direct and irrefragable evidence. The state may as well save its money in cases like that of the Patterson woman, where the evidence is circumstantial.

La Crosse Leader-Press: All over the country yellow newspapers which a few years ago enjoyed large circulations are going to pieces and the same, reliable paper is now the only kind that is increasing in circulation and prestige. Such a result was inevitable. The public might for a time be attracted by the novelty of large headlines and fake stories but in time it must find out that a fool of any type in a headline indicates no enterprise and generally a lack of news to run beneath it and that a paper crowded with deliberate falsehoods is apt to be short of actual news. It did not take long to give the public all it wanted of yellow journalism.

Merrill Advocate: The legislature is concerning itself principally with freak bills, and the opinion is somewhat general that it should give its attention to really serious work. For instance, the substitute for bill No. 352A, in general parlance the "medical bill." It means, sharply defined, that no professional practitioner can advertise his particular specialty without committing a misdemeanor that's punishable by law.

"Rattlesnake's "Jig."

The rattler of all rattlers is the American rattlesnake, to whose tail is appended a set of castanets by which he can play a jig that will set the "dullest" creature dancing away from the bandstand.

of professional (in this case medical) ethics, and a legal misdemeanor, are entirely different things, and any legislation interfering with the rights of specialists is hardly to be condemned.

Minneapolis Tribune: Very few persons understand the value of regularity of habits. Meals and sleeping hours should be fixed ones, for only harm can result from retiring one night at 10 and another at 12 o'clock unless the rising hour varies too.

Eight hours of sleep one night and six the next is not the way in which to live and keep health, and if a similar habit of taking nourishment is encouraged there is little hope of reaching old age in a creditable condition.

If ever you are tempted to go to bed at 9 o'clock every night for three months, rising at 5 and eating at 6, 12 and at 6 again, with never a break in the routine. The result will surprise you.

"MID-NIGHT FLYER" JUMPS FROM RAILS

Unexplainable Wreck at Northwestern Depot Sunday Morning—Damage Was Slight.

What might have been the most disastrous wreck that ever occurred on this portion of the Northwestern road, but what was in fact probably one of the luckiest escapes from heavy damage, occurred at the west end of the Chicago & Northwestern passenger station platform Sunday morning at about one o'clock. The Duluth Superior "Limited," pulling into the city forty minutes late left the tracks, twisting the rails, plowing up the road-bed, slightly damaging the engine and injuring, though not in the least seriously, the fireman, V. C. Blott of Chicago. The locomotive, tender, baggage-car, mail and express coach and diner were all thrown from the tracks, but only the engine damaged. The three sleepers remained on the rails. Blott was taken to the office of Dr. Woods and examination showed that the muscles of his arm were only strained and bruised. Nobody else was injured, though the passengers were disturbed and employees in the foremost end of the train shaken up. It was just two hours and fifty-five minutes after the wreck occurred, the mail and express car being placed back on the rails and the baggage transferred to another coach, when a train was made up and sent by way of Alton. A steam dredge was called from Chicago and lifted the locomotive and baggage-coach back to the rails. The tracks and road-bed were quickly repaired and the main track was cleared by nine yesterday morning. The trainmaster from Chicago was in the city yesterday making an investigation. The damage was estimated at less than fifty dollars, outside that done to the tracks. Just what caused the wreck is still a question. The wheels of the front truck of the engine remained on the track and presumably the back drivers were the first to leave, throwing off after them the tender and three cars. This might have been caused by a defective condition of the roadbed or rails or from the breaking of some part of the locomotive.

STEADY WORK BEGUN AT BEET FACTORY

Force of a Hundred Men Needed to Make Everything Ready for the Winter.

Work preparing for the giant crop of sugar beets to be ground into sugar this next fall and winter has already begun at the factory of the Rock County Sugar Company. From now until the delivery of beets begins a hundred men will be employed continually whitewashing, cleaning up the grounds and making ready for the winter's work. Up to date the Sugar Company has on its books a total of six thousand seven hundred and fourteen acres of beets for delivery this fall. A full force of men will go to work when the beets begin to be shipped in, but until then a force of a hundred will find employment.

CITY OF STREATOR ASKS FOR OUR FIRE CHIEF

Wants H. C. Klein to Come Down and Give Their Department Two Weeks' Drill.

Last fall the city council of Streator, Ill., endeavored to persuade Janesville's fire chief to go down there and give the newly organized department a two weeks' drill. Mr. Klein replied that he could not get away. Today he received another letter asking for a week or ten days of his time and the offering of whatever remuneration he deemed right. If this could not be granted the alderman who wrote the letter asked if Streator's fire chief might be sent here for a week's drill. In all probability the latter request will be granted.

ELECTRIC WIRES WERE SHORT CIRCUITED IN MUNGER STORE

And Fire Department Was Called Out at 10:45 This Morning—No Damage.

When a new floor was laid over the old one in Munger's East Milwaukee street store the boards were slotted out for the place where certain electric wires came through, forming a pocket for dust and other materials which might collect there during the sweeping. This, combined with the recent dampness, combined to rot away the insulation and this morning there was a flash, accompanied by the blowing out of the fuse. The fire department was called at 10:45 and the supposed incipient blaze extinguished with chemicals. No damage was done.

Like Old Times in Arizona

Interest during the greater part of yesterday centered around the faro game in the St. Elmo saloon. Arthur Cornder of the Fashion had in as much as $3,800 at one time, and such high play as this was good for the eyes of the old timers, who say it used to be common in these parts.

When the play got real hot Charley Hooker took the dealer's chair—Jerome correspondence Los Angeles Times.

Grace for Both.

A theological student, being urged by some young ladies to join a quadriga, declined; and, turning to a young lady near by, asked, with rather an imposing air, "Do you think, Mrs. —, that a man ought to dance who expects to fill the pulpit?" The lady replied, "I don't see why he should not, provided he has grace for both."

IS PRESENTED WITH DIAMOND SHIRT-STUD

Employees at the Northwestern Round House Remained Ex-For- man Erickson.

Thomas Erickson, who recently was transferred from his position as general foreman of the locomotive department of Janesville on the Northwestern road to the general foremanship of motive power and machinery on the Ashland division at the same road, was in the city over Sunday and yesterday afternoon at the roundhouse was presented with a beautiful diamond shirt-stud, the gift of the employees of the road, formerly under his supervision. Ex-General Foreman E. G. Harlow made the speech of presentation in behalf of the workmen and said:

"The employees of the Janesville shops have conferred upon me the honor of mailing an address to you in their behalf on the eve of your departure from their midst, to engage in other fields of usefulness, in the line of your greater abilities."

"The improvements made in this plant have been in keeping with the rapidly increasing science in railroading and all of such have not only in an economic measure but have advanced the comforts of all the employees engaged therein. We heartily congratulate you on your recent promotion from general foreman of these shops to the general foremanship of motive power and machinery on the Ashland division. We sincerely regret your departure, but you will be compensated by the honors you have gained. Promotions on the great system of the C. & N. W. railway mean that your services have been appreciated by the higher officials and your example of energy and skill displayed here will be emulated by others."

"Your discipline has been of such character which has made better united forces in the several departments of this plant. Discipline when backed by amity as manifest by you is perfect. We wish you Godspeed in your new field of labor, where you will be received and served by the grand corps of men who will come under your jurisdiction in our neighboring divisions. Much might be said to express our respect and regard for you, but language is inadequate and unnecessary to continue here."

"I am to present you with a gift, which in intrinsic value is but little, but it conveys such sentiments as we believe you will understand. It embodies confidence and esteem and respect and friendship. Let the gift be given to you your headlight. It certainly reflects in its purity and brilliancy the grand manhood of its recipient. May it ever guide you in all ways of pleasantness, and that all your paths be in peace, and attended with signal prosperity, is the prayer of all who greet you here."

"My personal experience with these years of my acquaintance has been the most pleasant attainable and while I mean no flattery and have no secret to enthrall on these lines, this same feeling has prevailed among all your employees. Among society and business men of the many I have met, and where I have interestedly heard expressions from all that the acquaintance and communion with Thomas Erickson was one of the golden opportunities of their lives."

"It is highly complimentary to us and the good people of our beautiful and modestly progressive city, that you regret to go from us, leaving your very pleasant home and many friends behind, but loyalty predominates in your make-up. You are called to a higher sphere of usefulness and continue in the service of the great system of the C. & N. W. Ry., whose developments of greater magnitude are daily observable. It is undoubtedly best for your personal interest to go. Your mission is not yet completed, and it is very pleasant to us to feel that step by step you are advancing, and we trust to an environs fame."

"Allow me then to hand you this precious stone, a shining mark of your many and enduring friends, and now."

"But half this world is made of parting, But these pains must be borne."

Ninety-Two Millions Paid Policyholders

The Prudential Insurance company of America has added another highly successful year to its brilliant record, an announcement which will cause satisfaction to its millions of policyholders. The volume of paid-for insurance issued by The Prudential during 1904 was over $312,000,000, an amount larger than ever before in the company's history. The assets were increased by $16,000,000, bringing the accumulated assets up to over $88,000,000, with liabilities of $75,000,000, leaving a surplus of $13,000,000. The annual statement of The Prudential, just published, analyzes these assets and shows them to be of the highest grade.

There was paid to policyholders during 1904 the sum of over $13,000,000. The company since its organization has paid to policyholders over $92,000,000.

A fact which strikes the casual reader, and one which goes far to explain the support of the company by the masses, is its just and liberal method of settling claims. Holders of old policies often receive more money than their policies entitle them to, no less than $5,000,000 having been paid by the company since its formation in such voluntary concessions to holders of old policies.

Write to the home office of the company, Newark, N. J., for information concerning The Prudential's policies, which furnish guaranteed protection to the family as well as dividends to the policyholders.

For the Nursery.

A plain green cartridge paper is used as the basis of a pretty wall covering for a nursery. On it are pasted at intervals figures of children of the Kate Greenaway order, cut from a special paper furnished for the purpose. Around the top is a deep frieze of jolly looking cats, looking down over a wall. The idea of pasting any suitable pictures on a plain green background for a child's room is worth carrying out.

GROCERY BURGLAR MAKES THIRD TRY

To Get Into Nolan Brothers' Establishment—Routed From Task by Watchman Miles Cox.

Last night the mysterious burglar who has been specializing in grocery stores, made a third attempt to get into Nolan Bros.' establishment on Milwaukee street. It was reported on the streets this morning that night watchman Cox trapped him in the four-foot pit into which a basement window opens, and that the man got away from him after he had helped him out of the hole. When seen this morning, Mr. Cox characterized this report as erroneous. He said that he was some distance away when the fellow jumped out of the hole and started to run. Not being certain that he was anything more than a tramp, he did not deem it expedient to shoot. Later, however, he found a steel burglar's jimmy in the pit and the board shutter that fitted into the window-opening partially pried from its moorings. He hastily informed officers Bear and Fanning and a search was made, but without result. The man wore a slouch hat, was about 20 years of age, and weighed about 120 pounds. He was routed by the watchman at half past nine o'clock.

BRIEF NEWS OF THE CITY

Has Farm Near Snyder: Six weeks ago W. H. Eekels, local manager of the Silica Brick & Stone Co., was in the town of Snyder, Oklahoma, which was recently partially destroyed by the tornado. He purchased a farm in that vicinity and was expecting big returns from the crops until the news that his property was in the path of the storm reached him.

Left Two Lemonades: Two Janesville young men, who occupied front seats at the Myers theatre Saturday evening, it is said, repeatedly smiled on one of the chorus maidens. As an appreciation of their attentions they were notified yesterday that two lemonades were awaiting them at one of the local soft-drink stands.

Ancient Order of Hibernians: There will be a meeting of the Ancient Order of Hibernians Tuesday evening at the Rockford hall. John T. Kelly will be present and take part in the exercises. All members are requested to be present.

Fire-Engine Tested: The fire-engine "Water Witch" was given its periodical test this afternoon and found in first-class condition.

Notice of Injury: In behalf of Robert O'Hara, a small boy, a notice has been filed with the city clerk to the effect that the city of Janesville will be held responsible for permanent injuries alleged to have been sustained by the said youth on the night of May 2, by tripping over a three-foot woven-wire obstruction and pitching into the 14-inch excavation for a sidewalk on the east side of Cornell street, near the John Boos premises.

Public is Thanked: At a meeting held by the Firemen's Relief association yesterday it was found that the net receipts from the benefit entertainment given at the West Side theatre amounted to $222.40. The association wishes to thank the public for their kind support and patronage.

Five or Six Weeks: Harold Dolan, the young man who was hurt Saturday noon on the bridge by being struck by a falling ladder, is getting along nicely now, but it will be five or six weeks before he will be recovered from his injuries and be able to resume his duties at the Northwestern freighthouse.

Liquor on Sunday: William Lenz of Clinton today pleaded nolle contineat to the charge of selling liquor on Sunday and was fined $10 and costs amounting in all to $25.85.

TWO HOLDUP MEN ARE CAUGHT

Police of Sioux City Arrest Alleged Perpetrators of Many Crimes

Sioux City, Iowa, May 15.—The police have arrested two men, John and Elmer Custer, brothers, who are believed to have started out to emulate the acts of the murderous car barn bandits of Chicago. The men have been identified as the culprits who held up and shot, perhaps fatally, Fritz Schmidt on the Fourth street viaduct. Other alleged holdup victims of the prisoners are James Smith and Charles Anderson. A number of burglaries which have occurred in the eastern part of the city in the last few weeks are laid at the door of these brothers. Chief of Police Dineen declares the prisoners are bad men and he regards their arrest as important.

NEW SCHEME TO AID THE POOR

Indiana Woman Finds Means of Giving Help During Summer.

Muncie, Ind., May 15.—Miss Mario Prothero, secretary of the Associated Charities, has inaugurated a new system whereby many of the poor families of the city and suburbs will be able to help themselves to a great extent during the present summer. The young woman, who has been working among the poor for several years, obtained an immense supply of garden seeds of various kinds, together with plants, and has distributed them among the poor with instructions to have them planted. The action has brought on a great demand for this nature of assistance from the poor of the city, and many who have good sized lots will be able to have them under cultivation and reap great benefit therefrom.

WALKS OFF THE FAST EXPRESS

Mystery Attends Act of Supposed Chicagoan in Wisconsin.

Kenosha, Wis., May 15.—An unknown man, presumably from Chicago, walked off the platform of the smoker of the northbound midnight express on the northwestern road as it was running sixty miles an hour, making up time, a mile south of Kenosha. Without a word he arose from his seat, opened the car door and stepped out into space. The train was stopped and run back, but a half hour's search failed to reveal any trace of him, the rain, which was falling in torrents, erasing all disturbances of the ground where he must have fallen.

What Shall We Do With the Senate?

Popular feeling is now agitated on the subject of the irresponsibility of the United States Senate as it has never been before since the foundation of the government. People are talking of radical, even revolutionary remedies for what many feel to be an almost unendurable evil.

To go no further back than the session of congress which closed March 4, we find at least ten serious counts in the indictment which large and influential classes are bringing against this body, several of them being apparently endorsed by practically all classes. These are:

- Failure to give the Interstate Commerce Commission power to regulate railroad rates.
- Failure to revise the tariff schedules.
- Failure to revise the naturalization laws.
- Failure to authorize necessary public buildings in Washington.
- Failure to authorize a new Canal Commission.
- Failure to bring life insurance corporations under Federal control.
- Failure to purge itself of unscrupulous senators.

Failure to ratify arbitration treaties.

Failure to ratify reciprocity treaties.

Thwarting the President's Santo Domingo policy.

In several of these matters the Senate has antagonized both the President and the House of Representatives. In nearly all of them it has antagonized the Executive. It has also, on most of these points, antagonized the overwhelming sentiment of the American people.

There is no question that the framers of our constitution feared the unscrupulousness of the popular majority. Up to that time no successful government had existed on the basis of universal suffrage. It was believed that checks and balances were necessary, in order that dangerous impulses on the part of the people should be restrained. It was consequently provided that the Senate and the President should be removed from direct responsibility to the voters at large.

A hundred and twenty years experience shows that the people can be trusted much further than the astute fathers of the republic supposed. It is true that the semi-independence of the Senate has at times prevented hasty and unwise legislation. But it is also in the opinion of the Sentry, true that this same condition has much more frequently obstructed and prevented the enactment of valuable laws.

Various remedies are proposed. One is to abolish the Senate. This of course is inadmissible. Two heads are always better than one, and the concurrence of two houses in the enactment of laws is certainly a safer and saner proposition than it would be to give all the power to one constituent assembly.

Another proposition is to so amend the constitution as to require Senators to be elected by the direct vote of the people of the several states, instead of by the state legislatures as is now done. Sentiment in favor of this reform is steadily growing, but there are indications that many years will elapse before it can be accomplished. No constitutional amendment can be submitted to the states until it has passed both houses of congress, and the senate is unquestionably hostile to this plan. Only by electing a majority of senators pledged in advance to support such an amendment can it ever be secured.

Meantime, it is within the power of the states themselves to accomplish this reform by indirect methods. Under the constitution the president and vice-president are chosen by electors from the several states, and these electors were, in the beginning, supposed to have an individual and independent right to vote for the person of their choice. But for nearly a hundred years, nominating conventions have taken this responsibility from the hands of the electors, and transferred it to the representatives of political parties, back of whom stand the people themselves. No elector at the present day would ever dare to vote against the nominee of his party. Some of the states have already legally adopted the primary election system, under which the United States Senators are selected directly by the people, and thus become as sharp as party candidates as are the nominees for president. Members of the legislature must accept these nominees, and vote for them, or take the political consequences of a betrayal of their trust.

This would seem to be the most easily attainable remedy for what is now an admitted evil—the irresponsibility of Senators to direct expressions of the popular will. The result of its operations in the states which have adopted it will be watched with intelligent interest, and if it proves successful we may expect its rapid extension throughout the country.

The Witch of Cragenstone

CHAPTER XXIV.

In a remote part of Cragenstone, far from the center of the village, built on a narrow defile that led from the main roadway and almost hidden by a wild growth of bushes and high trees, stood the prison where Margaret Maryland was confined.

It was a primitive affair built roughly of logs, the interior comprising a row of dark cells, a long narrow passageway and a room for the keeper; also a large assembly hall where the village tribunal or council held its sessions. Here it was that they heard disputants, punished offenders and otherwise sat in judgment. So quiet were the inhabitants of this obscure mountain village, so regular in their manner of living, peaceful and law abiding, that the jail for lack of serving any use of great importance had long since fallen into a state of neglect. The heavy wooden shutters hung loosely on broken hinges; the apertures that emitted air and light into the building were covered with a rusty iron grating, and the plain wooden furniture was dilapidated to an extraordinary degree. In fact, the only part of the old prison that gave evidence of strength or resistance was the huge front door of rough oak beams riveted together with iron bands that reached from door to roof.

Before this door on the afternoon of the day following Margaret's arrest, the old jailer, Matthew Allen, sat on a three legged stool sleepily watching the sun's gradual descent toward the horizon line. His good dog slept quietly at his side, and inside the prison the silence was intense.

Sounds of horse's hoofs pounding the roadway fell on the dull ears of the jailer, who raised his head expectantly, for watching alone before the jail in an isolated part of the village was a monotonous existence even for a plios old man whose thoughts were wont to the nearer heaven than earth, and so the hope of a chance visitor with whom to discuss the exciting events of the previous day caused an expression of unusual intentness to spread over Matthew's countenance as he looked toward the turn. Apparently the sight of the old man was failing, for the rider had appeared before his vision and approached quite a few yards in his direction before he recognized the tall, gray clad form of Josiah Taunton. With noisy clatter the horse and rider advanced, the latter pulling rein in a cloud of dust before the huge door of the jail.

"I give thee good day, Matthew," he said. "How doth fare thy prisoner, the devil's young accomplice? Is she still with thee?"

"Yes, master," the man responded seriously. "She is here."

"Thy news is good," Josiah observed. "Methought, perchance to hear that she had disappeared. Gone up yonder on a streak of lightning or in a cloud of smoke, to join the revels of her evil companions."

At this sally he laughed a loud laugh of cruel enjoyment. The jailer looked about him fearfully, calling under his breath for the intercession of the saints.

"How doth thy prisoner conduct herself, Matthew Allen?" Taunton inquired, with curious gleaming. "Doth she rave an' curse, tear down her hair an' call on that white livered coxcomb, that quondam lover of hers, to come to save her?"

"My son, her behavior is unusual," he answered, shaking his head from side to side in a way that implied his inability to understand. "The maid doth sit on the stool quietly, with head bowed an' hands pressed together o'er her heart, or else doth kneel on the floor and rest her head on the side of her hard pallet."

CHRONIC SORES

Wheeling, W. Va., May 28, 1903.
Some years ago while at work, I fell over a truck and severely injured both of my shins. My blood became poisoned as a result, and the doctor told me I would have running sores for life, and that if they were healed up the result would be fatal. Under this discouraging report I left off their treatment and reported to the use of S. S. S. Its effects were prompt and gratifying. It took only a short while for the medicine to entirely cure up the sores, and I am not dead as the doctors intimated, nor have the sores ever broke out again. Some 12 years have elapsed since what I have described occurred. Having been so signally benefited by its use I can heartily recommend it as the one great blood purifier.

John W. FUNDIS.
Care Schumulback Brewing Co.

Chronic sores start often from a pimple, scratch, bruise or boil, and while salves, washes and powders are beneficial, the unhealthy matter in the blood must be driven out or the sore will continue to eat and spread. S. S. S. reaches these old sores through the blood, removes all impurities and poisons, builds up the entire system and strengthens the circulation. S. S. S. is a blood purifier and tonic combined. Contains no mineral whatever but is purely vegetable. If you have an old sore write us and our physicians will advise without charge. Book on diseases of the blood free.

The Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Ga.

All eyes were turned toward the entrance, king to produce the woman in thy charge, one Margaret Maryland, before this tribunal. Bring forth the prisoner!"

Amid a breathless silence he resumed his seat.

Presently the grating noise of the opening and shutting of an iron door was heard, then the sounds of footsteps coming along the corridor. All eyes were turned toward the entrance and there was a ripple of excitement and deep interest as the old keeper, leading the prisoner, appeared in the doorway. Eagerly the spectators fixed their curious glances on Margaret, who wore a plain dress of black cloth unrelieved by any color or ornament save the gold cross on her bosom, that shone brightly on its fine gold chain. Her glittering hair, brushed back smoothly, was the concourse of people gathered before the jail. Trembling with excitement, old Matthew threw open the door, and they entered, walking slowly to the council chamber, followed at a respectful distance by the assembled people who took seats quietly on the rough wooden benches prepared for them.

When all were seated and the clang of the bell had ceased, the chief councilor rose and called loudly the name of Matthew Allen. Immediately the jailer appeared at the door.

"Matthew Allen," he said in solemn tones, "I call on thee in the name of the jailer paled visibly, and his jaw dropped as with eyes wide open in terror he looked into the dark and menacing countenance of his visitor, who now pompously drew a paper from his belt and with stern majesty proceeded to address the old man.

"Matthew Allen, keeper of Cragenstone jail, I have here an order from the chief councilor, herewith signed and sealed, commanding thee to bring the prisoner in thy charge—one Margaret Maryland, accused of witchcraft —before said councilor and council in the prison hall, where they will be assembled on the morrow at the hour of noon."

The jailer took the paper with trembling hands, stammering his surprise that so much haste had been deemed expedient.

"The council, as thou dost know, Matthew, is composed of wise men," he observed, "men who foresee danger and anticipate obstacles that might rise in their paths. Thy prisoner, jailer, hath a lover abroad known to have vast influence at court. As all the roads and passes are guarded by good Puritans heavily armed, his only way of escape was by the Sternford forest, where he must either die of starvation or become a prey to the hunger of the wolves."

He snapped his fingers indifferently, as if he did not care which. "So our good councilmen, knowing the value of precaution and having fair knowledge that oftentimes evil doth triumph over good, deemed it expedient to set the trial at the earliest hour, an' I warrant thee, Matthew, that the prisoner is found guilty and condemned to die her execution will follow speedily."

"Doth fear a rescue, master?" the jailer asked, alarm written on his countenance.

"Tis hard telling what intention was in the man's mind when he left."

Taunton replied soberly. "An we were careless enough to let the prisoner lie here a month or so mayhap the populace, safely surrounded by armed followers, would ride back to break down the door and bear the wretched man away. But," as he saw the pale deepen on the old keeper's face, "rest easy, Matthew, an' have faith in the council."

Having finished his discourse, he bade his horse about.

"One moment stay thee," the jailer cried eagerly, laying a restraining hand on the horse's mane. "An' should this knight find means of escape through the forest and ride back to save his lady, this old prison would offer but poor resistance."

"With so much dispatch will the council seal the woman's fate," Josiah answered sternly, "that unless La Fa-bonne hath eagle's wings wherewith to speed him on his travels he will arrive too late. Fare thee well, Matthew."

He started to ride away, then, pulling rein, suddenly brought his animal to a standstill.

"I a'most forgot to tell thee," he called over his shoulder, "that the couplet hath under advisement the matter of sending some other to remain with thee until the day that thy prisoner hath been freed or her doom sealed. God be with thee, Matthew."

Margaret Maryland, it continued, speaking with stern distinctness, "in the name of the king, thou hath been taken into custody and now brought to trial on the following charges: Concourse with Satan in rebellion against God, possessing a malevolent influence over human beings and supernatural powers to injure them, to read their thoughts, to fascinate and harm by a look, to control the elements and in other ways most wicked to practice the awful crimes of malice, black art, and witchcraft. Thine accusers state, he continued, "that already thou hast wrought much suffering to thy neighbors in this village. Women, hath aught to say in thy defense?"

For the first time Margaret lifted her eyes. "Good sir, of the charges thou dost name I am not guilty," she answered gently.

"Hast thou secured any one to argue in thy defense, to plead for thee?" he demanded.

"Nay, sir."

Her head fell forward, and she clasped her hands together tightly.

"I have no friends hereabout, save one old woman, who can do naught but cry for me."

"Thou mayst be seated."

A murmur of deep interest ran through the assemblage as the old councilor said: "Councilmen, we will proceed with the trial. Let the first witness be called."

He resumed his seat with solemn dignity, while the court crier, bunting with importance, rose at once.

"Josiah Tannston, we will proceed with the trial. Let the first witness be called."
